

The student will demonstrate knowledge of the major events during the first half of the nineteenth century by
a) identifying the economic, political, and geographic factors that led to territorial expansion and its impact on the American Indians (First Americans).

Economic and strategic interest, supported by popular beliefs, led to territorial expansion to the Pacific Ocean.

The new American republic prior to the Civil War experienced dramatic territorial expansion, immigration, economic growth, and industrialization.

American, stirred by their hunger for land and the ideology of Manifest Destiny, flocked to new frontiers.

Conflicts between American settlers and Indian (First Americans) nations in the Southwest and the old Northwest resulted in the relocation of many Indians to reservations.
